This jazz festival provides an opportunity for students of any age to perform jazz and improvisation pieces on the piano in a concert setting. A festival is not an audition or a competition. A program will be printed and students will receive a certificate of participation. A concert artist clinician will also perform at the end of the program and give a special presentation to inspire students and to relate information regarding the style.

The goal of this festival is to encourage pianists playing jazz, ragtime, original compositions and improvisations. Students will gain the opportunity to play pieces they may not be encouraged or allowed to play in regular auditions. Students have the opportunity to hear and be inspired by the performances of other students.

Guidelines

1. No fee is required to participate.
2. Students of teachers in the Columbia area are eligible: K-adult.
3. Students may play one or two pieces.
4. Students may play their original compositions and/or pieces composed by professionals.
5. Arrangements of popular pieces are permitted.
6. Memorized pieces are encouraged; however, sheet music may be used.
7. Students may play a piano solo, piano duet, piano trio or piano duo.
8. Parents and friends are invited to attend this free concert.

Registration

Fill out the application blank: which includes your name, address, phone number, email address, your repertoire and your teacher's information. Send to the chairperson before the event. Postmark deadline is January 22, 2013.
